2005

annual report

Lasting Connections

Ask any Boys & Girls Club staff person for proof that Clubs work, and they'll give you the statistics:

In areas with Clubs, juvenile crime, teen pregnancies and drug use drop, and grade point averages go up. Just as important are the lasting connections Club kids make with professional staff and volunteers. And nowhere is the power of those connections more apparent than in the story of Terry Nelson, Marlon Andrews and Darrell Hall. They aren't blood relations, but they're family in every way that counts.

The legacy of caring begins with Terry Nelson. When he began his career with Boys & Girls Clubs 37 years ago, Nelson couldn't have known that he would make so many lasting connections with Club members like Marlon Andrews. Growing up in Atlanta's Harris Homes community, Andrews joined the nearby Boys Club in 1975. The Club became a central part of his life, insulating him from the neighborhood's drugs and violence. After college, Andrews joined the staff of the W.W. Woolfolk Boys & Girls Club and was eager to pass on Nelson's legacy of caring. The chance to do so came sooner than he expected.

Like Marlon Andrews, Darrell Hall grew up in the Harris Homes community and needed a positive alternative to the negative influence of the streets. Under Andrews' mentorship, Hall went from a "problem kid" to a Club stand-out as BGCMA's 2004 Youth of the Year winner. The bonds between these three men are testament to the lasting impact Boys & Girls Clubs have on members. It is clear that Nelson set in motion a legacy of love and compassion that will be carried into future generations.

History Lesson

www.bgcma.org

Clubs are located in communities where the need is greatest.

More than 65 years after the city's first Club was established in the heart of downtown Atlanta, the legacy of caring continues. Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta (BGCMA) now reaches youth in all parts of the metropolitan area through 21 year-round Clubs in 10 counties. In addition, BGCMA operates a 160-acre residential camp, a youth art gallery and several extension sites. The organization's mission is to provide quality developmental programs that empower metro Atlanta youth, especially those from disadvantaged circumstances, to realize their full potential as productive citizens. Thanks to committed volunteers and caring adult professionals, BGCMA accomplishes this mission, delivering quality programs that meet the changing needs of young people in three core areas: Health, Education, and Employability and Leadership Development. Clubs are located in communities where the need is greatest and where similar services are limited or nonexistent. In order to effectively serve those who need us most, BGCMA is committed to keeping fees low. While it costs nearly $900 to provide services to a member, annual membership dues at BGCMA are only $35 per child – and no child is ever turned away due to inability to pay. Currently, the organization has more than 15,000 members, making it one of the nation's largest Boys & Girls Club organizations.

Empowering teenagers to be responsible, caring citizens is critical to the success of any community.

When the Boys & Girls Club of Newnan-Coweta began looking at ways to attract and recruit more teen members, Club professionals sought input from current members. The consensus? A recording studio would hit the right note. To make the project a reality, the Club secured a grant to help with funding. Teen Club members even sold pizza at events to raise the remaining money. Since the studio opened two years ago, the Club has experienced a significant increase in teen membership.

All songs created in the Club's recording studio are written, produced and performed by teens, with direct oversight from Club staff. All songs have a positive message that promotes constructive behavior.

Empowering teenagers to be responsible, caring citizens is critical to the success of any community. At

Boys & Girls Clubs, teens participate in Keystone Clubs to foster leadership development by electing their own officers, choosing their own activities, and planning and implementing community-service projects. By providing teens with the skills and opportunities to take charge of their own lives, Keystone Clubs cultivate good character and responsible behavior.

Swimming & Judo

www.bgcma.org

Sabir Muhammad is used to navigating uncharted waters.

The most decorated African-American in the sport of swimming, this Stanford University All-American grew up in an Atlanta neighborhood where drugs and crime were commonplace. Swimming was an escape from the community's despair, and a window to a better world. Together with Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta, Sabir is making sure deserving children have the same shot at success with the Swim for Life program, a coaching initiative that teaches basic skills and water safety.

“Swimming can be more than just a sport, it can build a child’s self-confidence and create endless possibility.”

– Sabir Muhammad, BGCMA
Volunteer and National Championship Swimmer

When Jasmeen Sapp first came to the Warren/Holyfield Boys & Girls Club, she never dreamed that one day she would earn a bronze medal in judo at the Junior Pan-American games.

But seeing the potential in a child – when she may not even see it in herself – is what Boys & Girls Clubs are all about. For Jasmeen, it was the Club’s volunteer coach, Nick Goodly, who saw her potential and transformed it into a world-class talent. An Olympic hopeful and world traveler, Jasmeen knows that wherever she goes, her Club is always cheering her on.

“Thanks to my coach at the Boys & Girls Club, I learned how to use judo to develop my body, mind and character so I can be a champion on and off the mat.”

Debate

Youth of the Year

www.bgcma.org

First Lady Laura Bush praises Atlanta Boys & Girls Club Members for debate excellence.

As part of her national initiative, "Helping America's Youth," First Lady Laura Bush visited Atlanta to hail the city's Computer Assisted Debate (CAD) project as an innovative learning solution for at-risk youth. A collaborative effort among Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta, the Atlanta Housing Authority, Atlanta Public Schools, TechBridge, Georgia State University and Emory, the CAD project teaches members critical reading, research and computer skills. Studies have shown students who participate in such debate programs have better communication and research skills and better self-esteem than other students.

"The analytical skills students develop in debate can help them steer clear of risky behavior such as alcohol or drugs by having them learn to see both sides of an option."

– First Lady Laura Bush

Ask any Youth of the Year winner how he or she achieved the honor, and you'll hear about a Club staff member who made a difference.

"At the Boys & Girls Club, my mentors taught me that leadership starts with compassion and service. I know that giving back is really how you get ahead." Edgardo Castaneda, BGCMA Youth of the Year

Designed to promote and recognize community service, academic performance and personal leadership, the Youth of the Year program helps individual Club members develop poise and public speaking skills. All 21 Clubs in the metro Atlanta area select a local Youth of the Year winner to compete in a citywide competition and serve as the organization's youth representative.

BOYS & GIRLS CLUBS OF METRO ATLANTA

Dear Friends,
 We are proud to join with our fellow Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta (BGCMA) members, staff and board of directors in publishing our 2005 annual report. Whether a financial partner, board member, professional staff or volunteer, your help has supported thousands of young lives and strengthened the mission of the organization. Together, we've accomplished a great deal by providing deserving children in metro Atlanta with a positive place to grow and succeed for more than 65 years.

A key element of our success is the dedicated space each Club provides young members. The $35 yearly dues paid by each youth cover only a small portion of the approximately $900 per member annual cost for programs, personnel and facilities. Periodically, as in 1997 when the community rallied to raise $17 million, the organization must come back to its supporters to raise funds to improve these facilities. In response to our unprecedented growth, BGCMA has launched its $22.5 million "Growing Stronger Together" capital campaign to expand our efforts and reach more children with greater impact.

None of our accomplishments would be possible without the support of the community. We are especially indebted to the individuals who contribute to the development of Atlanta's deserving youth through donations of their time, talent and treasure. Without your support, our growth would not be possible. We are also thankful for the generous backing of partners such as the United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta, Boys & Girls Clubs of America, Check-Free Corp., the Atlanta Falcons Youth Foundation, UPS and Publix.

As always, our success is your success. We look forward to another year of continued achievement and thank you for supporting Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta, The Positive Place for Kids!

Sincerely,

Arthur Richardson

With more than two dozen programs to select from, members of the Matthews Boys & Girls Club never complain about being bored. From speech-writing classes to sports and dance, there's always something to satisfy every interest.

Located on 160 acres in Madison County, Camp Kiwanis serves as the Environmental Education Center for more than 13,000 members of Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Atlanta. Numerous on-site facilities allow campers to experience everything from native azalea gardens to forest ecology and river rafting.

Camp Kiwanis

For more than 25 years, the G.W. Carver Boys & Girls Club of Metro Atlanta has been serving young people in DeKalb's Kirkwood district. Thanks to caring staff members and award-winning programs, the Club draws nearly 200 young people from nearby neighborhoods.
